1. The situation in Korea will not continue as at present, because the South Koreans and Americans will not advance much farther to the North.
2. If the situation cannot be resolved shortly by diplomacy, it will be resolved by force. If the latter is the case, the North Koreans will certainly not get the worst of the matter.
3. The Soviet Union will not intervene militarily, and probably neither will MAO Tse-tung. The Republic of Mongolia will intervene, probably aided by MAO Tse-tung.

This document is hereby regraded to CONFIDENTIAL in accordance with the letter of 16 October 1978 from the Director of Central Intelligence to the Archivist of the United States.
